our organisation

What makes the Australian Medico-Legal Group different from its competitors?

The quality and range of its medico-legal specialists, its management systems, its technology and technical expertise, combined with over 25 years of industry experience.

The core business objective of ensuring consistent quality medico-legal reports delivered in responsive timeframes and at a commercially competitive cost.

It is founded on a single principle of customer service.

our people

Our management and staff have over 30 years of senior level experience, and are highly regarded in the medico-legal profession. The fundamental difference between Australian Medico-Legal Group and other providers is that it has had the opportunity to create a new single focused entity based on a distillation of considerable industry experience and legal expertise, which has been combined with the necessary financial and other resources.

Australian Medico-Legal Group is a collection of like minded staff and medical specialists who see the provision of the best level of service with the highest level of client satisfaction as being its own greatest asset. Our track record to date validates our core business objective to provide all of our clients with consistent, high quality medico-legal reports in responsive time frames and at a commercially competitive cost.

We have a hand picked panel of over 200 medical specialists across NSW and all states and territories of Australia. In addition we have specialists in New Zealand, Canada, London and the United States of America. The selection of panel members has been based on ensuring the right spread of medical specialists as regards both their field of specialisation, their level of expertise and their physical location.
